

What Is Going On?

For the sixth year in a row we began this year at a new high in the stock market. In fact, for the last two years, we have begun the year at basically all-time market highs. This has many people confused and concerned. In fact, in all my years in this business, I have never been asked, "What is going on?" so many times.

The markets have been on a strong bull run since the collapse of 2007-2009. In fact, the S&P 500 index has had double-digit returns in all of these years except one. Plus, the three largest short-term corrections from peak to trough in the last three years have all been in only the single-digit range.

This combination is very rare, especially with all the negative stories, events and issues going on the last few years. This has many people confused and full of "What is going on?" questions, such as:

- Every time the market seems to be heading down, it goes right back up. Why?
- How can the market not be affected by all of these negative events and information?
- Do you really have to take substantial risk in order to make money in today's markets?

One other common and vital question being asked by many people right now is "When will this bull market end?" People are wondering whether it is time to get out and protect their money.

To address these concerns and questions, I will be interviewing one of the most educated and experienced, and in my opinion, one of America's brightest and most successful money managers on my radio show the next two weeks.

So, if you have been asking yourself, "What is going on?" make sure you join me next week on the It's Your Money Show. The show airs on WMEQ (880 AM) on Thursday at 7:30am and Saturday at 9:00am, as well as on WWIB (103.7 FM) on Wednesday at 7:30pm and Saturday at 5:30pm.
